

A refusal for a visitor visa to Canada will not in any way negatively affect your application for permanent residence (PR) status in Canada. Conversely, a rejection for an application for PR will usually negatively affect an application for a visitor visa.