

Depending on how crucial the documents are in the assessment of your application, it may be possible to provide an explanation as to the reason you are unable to provide them. The final decision rests with the immigration officer who is handling your application.